Museum of Underwater Art (MOUA)

Launching in December 2019, world-leading underwater sculptor, Jason deCaires Taylor has created an experience, the MOUA, which will be a globally-significant asset to Townsville and the surrounding regions and more broadly to Queensland and Australia.

As the only underwater art museum in the Southern Hemisphere – along with being a major tourist attraction, economic injector, job generator and marine science and research hub, MOUA will act to highlight reef conservation, restoration and education on a global scale.

The artworks will be at several locations along the Queensland coast, including the John Brewer Reef, Magnetic Island, Palm Island and Townsville. The first, Ocean Siren, due to open in December, is on The Strand in Townsville. The 'Ocean Siren' sculpture will be installed 30 metres from the shoreline above the water and has been modelled on a local Traditional Owner, Takoda Johnson, and will change colour in response to changes in the water temperature. An estimated

500,000 visitors (locals and tourists) will view the sculpture on The Strand each year. moua.com.au

Reefsuites

Prepare to be dazzled by a magical underwater world and watch in awe as colourful tropical fish swim right by your window.

Spend a magical night in Australia's first underwater accommodation and have a front-row seat to the dazzling underwater world of the Great Barrier Reef. Be prepared for an intimate and totally unique experience that will stay with you forever. The Reefsuites are the centrepiece of an $8 million redevelopment of the Reefworld pontoon, situated at Hardy Reef, which has been meticulously reconstructed after damage sustained in Cyclone Debbie in 2017.

Guests will be able to stay overnight in one of two underwater Reefsuites, each showcasing spectacular panoramic views of the reef's marine life such as tropical fish, turtles and manta rays. This unique offering will be available to guests from summer 2019. cruisewhitesundays.com

Hamilton Island Heart Reef Pontoon

Hamilton Island Air has recently opened its eagerly awaited pontoon, at Heart Reef. Moored 40 nautical miles (about 60 kilometres) northeast of Hamilton Island and situated in the Great Barrier Reef, Heart Island offers a unique experience for all who visit.

This breathtaking, James Bond-style experience starts with a 30-minute helicopter trip over iconic sights such as Whitehaven Beach, Hill Inlet, the Great Barrier Reef and on to Heart Reef. Guests arrive on the roof of a floating heli-pad, then venture down a secret staircase into the interior to board the glass bottom boat for a once in a lifetime trip around Heart Reef, followed by a snorkelling experience in the surrounding area. This exclusive tour is available to just six guests per visit.

This experience departs daily, including return scenic flight, glass-bottom boat tour of Heart Reef lagoon, snorkelling equipment, light catering and beverages. hamiltonisland.com.au

Encompassing a large boardwalk, a nerve-testing glass floor section, sweeping views of the rocky vista and up-close views of the dramatic waterfall, The Edge Lookout provides an entirely new experience to the multi-award-winning Skyrail rainforest experience. skyrail.com.au

Cobbold Gorge Glass Bottom Bridge

Cobbold Gorge Tours have launched Australia's first glass bridge, spanning the width of the gorge which opened in October 2019. The 11-metre glass bridge will give tourists the opportunity to walk over the sandstone cliffs and look down to the waters below. This new tour compliments the existing experiences run by Cobbold Gorge Tours, which includes boat tours, stand up paddle boarding tours through the gorge and scenic helicopter flights. cobboldgorge.com.au nine places

to fall in love under the falls
this Valentine's Day!

Author: Tourism and Events Queensland –
Kantesha Takai

In Queensland, Valentine's Day is at the end of summer. Coincidentally, that may be why the term "having the hots for someone" was invented. But we digress. While the weather may be perfect for beach dates, romantic trips and all things adventure, it can get stinking hot. We're talking upwards of 40 degrees in some places. Ouch!

You're probably thinking "who wants to be outdoors this V-Day", and we don't blame you. But, before you rush off to book a poorly lit restaurant or a movie that both of you agree isn't cinema-worthy, imagine cooling off under cascading falls, floating weightlessly and swimming in rejuvenating fresh water.

That's right, you can still have an outdoor adventure and keep cool at the same time. So, ditch the rose for the great outdoors and treat your valentine to a date under these falls.

MILLAA MILLAA FALLS

Tropical North Queensland

Channel your inner Peter Andre and woo your date by dancing in front of the flowing falls of Millaa Millaa in Tropical North Queensland. Just 1.5 hours drive from Cairns, you'll find Millaa Millaa in the Atherton Tablelands.

Warning: you will pass other fresh water holes and waterfalls on the way (because hey, this region is riddled with them) however, hold out to see your date's eyes light up when Millaa Millaa's movie-quality falls transports them to exotic Thailand.

WALLAMAN FALLS

North Queensland

Profess your never-ending love under Wallaman's never-ending falls. This beauty is Australia's highest permanent single drop waterfall and it runs all year round, 365 days a year, 24 hours a day. And just like the complexities of love, Wallaman Falls isn't a walk in the park. In fact, it's a hike and a-bit-of-bouldering to reach the pool at the bottom. So, help your date lace up their boots and trek the 4-kilometre course together.

For the not-so-keen hikers, see the falls (and its 268-metre drop) from the lookout near the car park instead. To get to Wallaman Falls, it's 2.5 hours northwest from Townsville or only an hour drive west from Ingham.

JOSEPHINE FALLS

Tropical North Queensland

Slide down a natural water slide and into each other's arms (aww), what could be more romantic? The boulders at Josephine Falls are a natural waterpark where you and your valentine can be big kids and swing on thick vines, splash in the pool and enjoy each other's company. You'll find Jo about an hour south of Cairns, in the Wooroonooran National Park.

MORANS FALLS

Lamington National Park

If you're looking for the perfect spot to exhale and reflect on an amazing Valentine's Day, head to Morans Falls in the afternoon. Only a 1.5 hour drive from the Gold Coast, or 2 hours from Brisbane. Follow the walking trail to the lookout and be rewarded with a gorgeous sunset. Hold hands, stare out over Lamington National Park and picture your future together.

BABINDA BOULDERS

Tropical North Queensland

A tale of forbidden love makes Babinda Boulders a very special spot to spend V-Day. Legend has it that a young Aboriginal woman named Oolana was forced to marry an older man, whom she had no feelings for. And, when a wandering tribe arrived, she found love at first sight with a handsome man named Dyga. They met every night until their tribes uncovered their secret. Disappointed, Dyga's tribe took him far away. In pain and anguish, Oolana threw herself into the water creating an upheaval. Huge boulders emerged from the earth and she disappeared.

When you visit Babinda Boulders with your date, please refrain from swimming in Devil's Pool. Stick to the main swimming area, it's close to the car park and is very accessible.

Because the water runs straight from the tablelands, it's fresh and slightly chilly, but on a balmy Valentine's Day, all you'll want to do is dive in.

ELLINJAA FALLS

Tropical North Queensland

Beautiful from every angle, Ellinjaa Falls is arguably one of the best falls along the Atherton Tablelands waterfall circuit. Complete with natural props for stunning photos (like the large log directly in front of the falls), it's perfect for professional and budding photographers to get creative. Capture moments from your Valentine's Day that you'll cherish for years to come and don't forget to take a romantic selfie on the hidden ledge under the falls. You'll find Ellinjaa Falls about a 1.5 hour drive from Cairns and at the bottom of a lush rainforest staircase.

CEDAR CREEK FALLS

Airlie Beach

Gift your date a giant inflatable swan and then drive 30 minutes inland from Airlie Beach. Take a left on Conway Beach Road and drive about 7 kilometres into the Whitsunday Coast hinterland (you can't miss it). Here you'll find the oasis that is Cedar Creek Falls. Complete with resident turtles and fish, this natural rock amphitheatre is a cool spot to chill.

STONEY CREEK FALLS, FAIRY FALLS OR CRYSTAL CASCADES

Tropical North Queensland

If you're planning an itinerary for the big day and are pulling out all the stops, you need a waterfall on that schedule. And, the best place to go is Stoney Creek Falls, Fairy Falls or Crystal Cascades. These three local faves are only 15 minutes from Cairns city and they're perfect for a quick dip and hot Insta photos.

MENA CREEK FALLS AT PARONELLA PARK

Tropical North Queensland

Swoon your valentine and set a high bar for all Valentine's Days to come with a day trip to Paronella Park, just 1.5 hours from Cairns. The romantic history behind Paronella is a tear-jerker (the happy kind) and you can learn all about it arm-in-arm with your #bae on a tour.

In short, after arriving in 1913, Spanish cane farmer Jose Paronella had a dream to build a large house on a five-hectare virgin plot of land in Tropical North Queensland. Before getting started, Jose returned to Catalonia and married his wife Margarita. Together they returned to Queensland where Jose brought his vision to life.

For anyone who's read or watched The Notebook, Jose and Margarita are basically the real-life Noah and Allie. And, instead of a big white house with blue shutters, Jose built his wife a Spanish castle surrounded by tropical rainforest and an accompanying waterfall. How's that for an act of love?

Psst! If you're planning to go all the way and pop the big question (hint hint), Paronella Park is the perfect place to do it.

eight ways to master

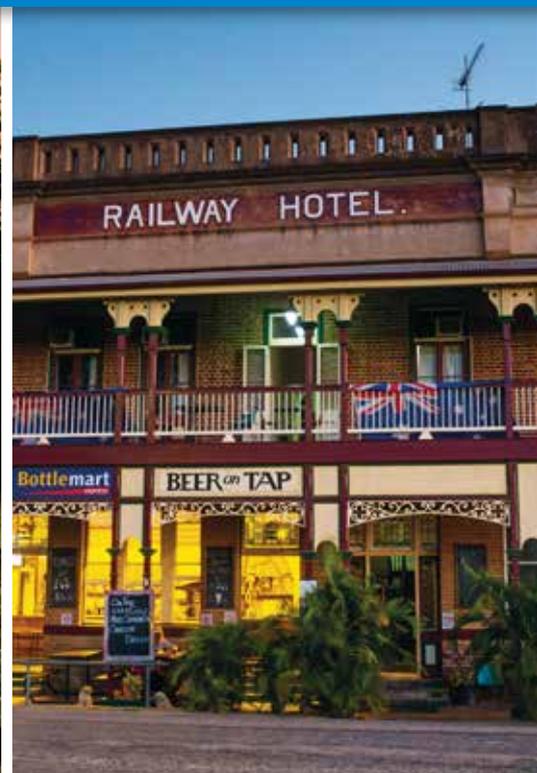

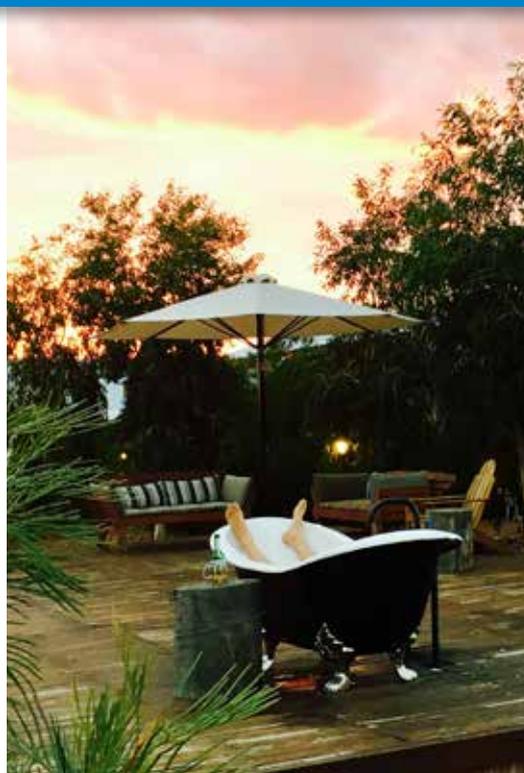

an Outback Queensland summer

Author: Outback Queensland

If there was any doubt that Outback Queensland is smokin' hot – a quick glance at a thermometer in summer settles all bets but hang around and we promise, you'll be rewarded. Here are our hot tips for cooling down when you head out west to Outback Queensland.

Birdsville, Outback Queensland; The Burdekin
River, Charters Towers; Outback Bathtub, Longreach; Charters Towers Pub, Charters Towers*

1. Visit a man-made, air-conditioned attraction

They build things cooler in the outback and the QANTAS Founders' Museum in Longreach, John Flynn Place in Cloncurry and the Charleville Cosmos Centre are no exception. Put them on your to-do list when the temperatures start to rise and your temperament starts to deteriorate. You'll see attractions, artefacts and art pieces encased in world-class air-conditioning.

2. Sip an ice-cold beer at one of Outback Queensland's iconic hotels

There's a correlation between hot days and cold beers in this neck of the woods. A stop in at one of Outback Queensland's best watering holes is guaranteed to quench your thirst. As the temps outside reach 40 degrees you'll still be sipping on sub-5 degree liquid gold.

3. Find shade under a Coolibah Tree

Follow the movements of the jolly swagman and find yourself under the shade of a Coolibah Tree. These wide-spreading eucalypts are usually found on the banks of creeks and rivers like Coolibah Trees in the Roma Bush Gardens, Lochern National Park, or by the banks of the Five Mile Waterhole.

4. Take a dip in an artesian pool

For the original float tank experience, swap inner-city salt caves with an artesian pool. These therapeutic spas draw on thermal mineral waters from the Great Artesian Basin and are perfect for relieving muscle tension. You'll find them located in Blackall and Mitchell – smack bang in the middle of Artesian Country. By summer you'll want to dive straight into a chilled artesian pool – natural artesian water is 38 degrees.

5. Dive into an outback river

There's no need to go coastal with so many inland watercourses in Outback Queensland, where you can swim, fish, barbecue and waterski. The Thomson, Warrego, Barcoo, Dawson and Flinders Rivers are dotted across the region and are the best chill-out locations during the summer solstice.

6. Cool off in one of Outback Queensland's gorges

If cooling off in blow-up pools has become all too familiar, swap the backyard water dish for an au naturale dip in an Outback Queensland gorge. Set beneath towering sandstone cliffs and among lush vegetation Isla Gorge, Carnarvon Gorge and Porcupine Gorge are all found a little off the beaten track, but a journey their way is our weapon of choice in this summer survival pack.

7. Relax in an outdoor outback bathtub

Shandonvale Station gives 'bathtime' a new meaning. Lay back in their iconic outdoor bathtub and watch the sunset on a warm day in Outback Queensland with a glass of crisp white wine in tow. It'll cure whatever summer heats ail you.

8. Ride the rails in air-conditioned comfort

What would you say if we mentioned you could see the best of Outback Queensland without ever having to leave the air-conditioning? Join Queensland Rail Travel's Spirit of the Outback, The Westlander and The Inlander for a journey through Outback Queensland in fully air-conditioned comfort. Double the fun for these iconic rail journeys through Charleville, Longreach and Mount Isa with a 2FOR1 deal this summer.

50 things
to do in the Whitsundays
this summer

Author: Tourism and Events Queensland – Shelley Winkel

Number 32 – Palm Bay Resort, Long Island

With 74 islands to explore, kilometres of squeaky white sand beaches – and the kind of mainland hub you find yourself plotting a seachange to after just one visit – you won't be short of things to do in the Whitsundays.

Your bucket list will be overflowing with these 50 things to tick off:

- 1 Feel the solitude of the reef without the tourists and camp out on Reef Sleep pontoon with Cruise Whitsundays. From $525 per person, you get two days on the reef, comfy swags and a million stars at night.
- 2 Tuck into a local crab claw, the biggest and the best outside Singapore at Fish D'vine or slug down one of their mojitos, rated – by one journalist at least – as best in the world.
- 3 Grab a coldie, pick the perfect palm tree and then sit back and watch the sunset at Cape Gloucester Resort restaurant... Shhh, keep it quiet. This is truly a local secret.
- 4 Warm up on the world's whitest sand on Whitehaven Beach, often voted as the No. 1 Beach in Australia and the South Pacific, and one of the Top 10 beaches in the world.

- 5 Tee off at Australia's only island championship golf course located on Dent Island.

- 6 See a swarm of majestic blue Ulysses butterflies at Butterfly Bay on Hook Island as they fly out over the ocean every morning and afternoon.
- 7 Sign up for Salty Dog Sea Kayaking's half-day, full-day or a marathon six-day tour and power yourself through the Whitsundays.
- 8 Walk from your lounge to the lawn, set up a banana chair and snooze just metres from the impressive Whitsunday Passage at Marina Shores.
- 9 Jump on board a ferry and island-hop the passage to Hamilton Island. Taste test a poolside Pina Colada at each resort.
- 10 Zip, zoom and zap across the Coral Sea from your very own jet-ski with award-winning operator, Whitsunday Jetski Tours.
- 11 Have a 60-minute heart-to-heart and chopper over Heart Reef, perfectly shaped and surrounded by turquoise waters.
- 12 Eat a Bowen mango where it all started, in Bowen, the home of summer's most favourite fruit.

- 13 Take a day trip to Palm Bay with Island Transfers. Immerse yourself in the lush rainforest whilst tracking through the national park. Play tennis, go kayaking, snorkelling or fishing, or just laze by the pool with a cocktail in hand.
- 14 Get behind the eight ball with billiards or croon your heart out on karaoke at the lively bars in the main street of Airlie Beach.

- 15 Bet on a toad or two at the weekly Cane Toad Races every Thursday night at Magnums, Airlie Beach.
- 16 Check out the Saturday markets on the Airlie Beach foreshore for the usual jumble of fresh fruit and veg, coffee, clothing, and one of the cheapest places for a massage.
- 17 Grab a hand line and land a prized barramundi, the prince of freshwater catches, just 30 minutes from Proserpine at Peter Faust Dam.
- 18 Help save the Great Barrier Reef with Eco Barge Clean Seas Inc., a hands-on volunteer experience where you pick up marine debris from the beaches of the Whitsunday Islands.
- 19 Take a natural shower at Cedar Creek Falls, located 20 kilometres from Proserpine on Saltwater Creek Road.
- 20 Smell the wild lemon myrtle flowers and listen to the wampoo pigeon as you trek the lowland tropical rainforest along the Conway Circuit.
- 21 Light up a free barbecue at the Airlie Beach and Shingley Beach lagoons or Cannonvale Beach in a safe stinger-free environment surrounded by relaxed landscaped gardens.
- 22 Hike your way to Coral Cove, a hidden bay fringed by reef and surrounded by tall pines, accessed from Saddle Junction on Hamilton Island on a 4.6 kilometre round trip. Don't forget to pack your togs – there's plenty of swimming spots along the way!

23 Set sail from Coral Sea Marina on a dreamy day trip to secluded bays and beaches like Macona Inlet and Butterfly Bay with Airlie Beach Day Sailing. The French chef will prep the nibbles and you can BYO tippie!

24 Picnic on the soft white sand at Boathaven Beach and suck up the stunning views of the Coral Sea and islands beyond.

25 Jump on board with Just Tuk'n Around pedicabs who run short tours of Airlie Beach as well as progressive dinners. Start at Sorrento for pizzas and sundowners, then onto Shucks for oysters and 74 Taphouse for share platters, finishing at KC's Bar & Grill for live music.

26 Travel in an open-air tractor-drawn wagon train with Whitsunday Crocodile Safari and take a cruise to spot flocks of magpie geese, agile wallabies, resident brologas, and the prehistoric saltwater crocodiles.

27 Get down with gran over a $15 barefoot bowl (including a sausage sizzle!) at the Airlie Beach Bowls Club.

28 Re-enact the Hot Tub Time Machine at the Pinnacles Resort and Spa. These oversized spas offer sweeping views of the Whitsunday Islands.

31 While at Hamilton Island, order the dribble-worthy 'son-in-law' eggs followed by 'twice-cooked pork ribs' at coca chu restaurant. No need to fly to Asia.

32 Enjoy the serenity and sunsets from your hammock on the verandah of your private Balinese inspired beachfront villa, at secluded Palm Bay Resort on Long Island while exploring the 13 kilometres of walking tracks through abundant island rainforest.

33 Sit on the beach and enjoy live music every Sunday at the Airlie Beach Esplanade.

34 Heck, while you're in the Whitsundays, why not get married? There happens to be a chapel on Daydream, Hayman and Hamilton Islands.

35 Ride your own Segway through the spectacular Conway National Park rainforest, or along the Whitsunday Bicentennial Boardwalk overlooking the pristine waters of Pioneer Bay.

36 Walk in the footsteps of the Ngaro people at Nara Inlet on Hook Island and discover ancient Aboriginal artworks on the fragile rock surface.

37 Walk, run or ride the 3.7 kilometres Bicentennial Walkway from the Airlie Beach Lagoon, past the Botanic Gardens to Cannonvale Beach (and check out the outdoor gym along the way!).

38 Watch the sunset from the decks of Sundowner Cruises' flat-bottomed boat and absorb the twilight hues with beautiful views.

39 Cuddle a koala or any other furry marsupial at Wildlife Park Hamilton Island.

40 Walk one of nature's gifts at low tide and spot starfish, crabs, stingrays and other marine life along the myriad of Whitsundays' sand flats.

41 Blend in with the locals by lunching at Northerlies (while pretending you're used to seeing such ridiculously turquoise water every day).

42 Holiday big on a small budget and go camping on the largest island in the Whitsundays, Whitsunday Island. Permits are around $6 per night.

45 Hike to the lookout at Hill Inlet for stunning views over Whitehaven Beach.

46 Line up for a seafood feast at Bird's Fish Bar at Bowen Fishermans Seafood Company, and then visit the sites of Bowen and spot where Australia the movie was filmed.

47 For the best morning brew with a view, head to the Fat Frog Beach Café at Cannonvale Beach.

48 Visit the infamous Living Reef Lagoon for either a day or night at the newly refurbished Daydream Island Resort.

49 Hire a set of fins and a snorkel from the dudes at Catseye Beach at Hamilton Island and snorkel the fringing reef directly off the island at low tide.

50 Watch the sunrise and sunset from your balcony at Bowen's 'island on the mainland' at Whitsunday Sands Resort.

Explore the Unexplored

Author: BOOBOOK Eco Tours

Outback Queensland is host to some of Australia's best-kept secrets. This unique country of ours is so vast that some areas are yet to be properly explored.

With a keen interest in natural history and native animals and plants, BOOBOOK ecologists love to explore the unexplored to further understand this wonderful state we call home.

Over the past 20 years, our teams have discovered six new plant species and numerous range extensions for both native plants and animals. In addition, our Director and Principal Ecologist, Craig Eddie, has discovered over 50 new species of land snails alone and yes, he can describe and name the 3000+ currently found across Australia.

This thirst for more knowledge and interest in the natural environment has led to the initiation of our Eco-Science Expeditions. The first of which took place in September 2019, in the little-explored uppermost headwaters of the Dawson River within the Carnarvon Ranges.

The Dawson River is the lifeblood for both biodiversity and agriculture, yet we know virtually nothing about the ecology and biology of the environment at the source of the river. There have been no previous biological surveys in this stretch of the river, and we sought to unlock its secrets.

Here are some preliminary findings from our inaugural Eco-Science Expedition within the Dawson River study area (results are still being analysed and it will take some months to fully prepare the report/data).

- We intensively explored a 4-kilometre stretch of the Dawson River which had not previously been explored by biologists
- The terrain was rough in places but included some beautiful sandstone cliff lines, caves and side gorges – these provide numerous hiding places for a range of animals which could potentially include rare and endangered species such as the Northern Quoll (although we didn't find any)
- With seven pairs of keen eyes (two guides and five participants) we recorded approx. 50 species of birds, 10 species of reptile, and several species of mammals and frogs
- This included several sightings of the elusive Herbert's rock-wallaby which has a very patchy occurrence in the Carnarvon Range
- We also found evidence of where glossy black-cockatoos had been feeding under Casuarina (she-oak) trees – this is a rare and threatened species in Queensland
- We also targeted several invertebrate groups (animals without backbones) including butterflies, dragonflies and land snails
- We found 15 species of butterflies and at least six species of dragonflies
- Land snails were represented by at least 10 species – although we had previously done some serious snail work nearby, one of our participants still managed to find a 'hairy snail' which represents a range extension for the species
- We found many significant waterholes – these provide refuge for plants and animals that depend on water in an otherwise very dry landscape. We mapped the extent of the waterholes so that we know where to target any future studies. Lots of evidence of the presence of Rakali (water rat) was observed and one was spotted in a water hole unusually during the middle of the day (normally seen at night)

- We found one spring which had not been previously documented
- We recorded approximately 180 species of plants along the river – quite a large total which included some exciting finds such as:
 - A species of wattle which is likely to be the first record for this species from the Carnarvon Range
 - A new population of a rare species of bottlebrush (Melaleuca)
 - A range of spectacular wildflowers was photographed including grevilleas, wattles and native peas.

The weather was superb with very warm days - even warm enough for a swim and paddle in a canoe. Our exploring participants also learnt about animal identification and observation techniques, plant collecting and using identification keys and flora survey techniques. We had great food in an awesome base where we could share our daily discoveries!

What happens next?

All the information we collect is recorded electronically following each expedition and the analyses of data provide a summary report highlighting the area's values. Information collected is also used to form the bases of scientific papers. This will contribute to a much better understanding of the upper reaches of one of Queensland's most important river systems. The information is valuable too and can be used by multiple organisations including the landowner/ managers and Natural Resource Management Groups.

ROMA'S OWN DR DOLITTLE

Craig Eddie, BOOBOOK Principal Ecologist, loves conversing with animals. He has been face-to-face with the endangered Northern Hairy-nosed Wombats in Central Queensland and a less-intimidating, though equally intriguing leaf-tailed gecko in the Carnarvon Ranges. On ecological surveys throughout Outback Queensland, he has found new species of land snails, scorpions, fairy shrimps and plants.

Should you get the chance, let Craig be your guide on a BOOBOOK "Discover Carnarvon Ranges" tour to explore the hidden wonders of secluded gorges, see amazing rock formations, uncover cool Australian wildlife, rare plants and visit unique Aboriginal rock art sites.

Or if you're interested in seeing the many industries that support our outback towns, join in our "Wheat Wells and Wildlife" tour. During the day we take a behind the scenes guided tour through a major coal seam gas field and visit a family-owned working cattle and cropping property which is also home to an array of wildlife including playful platypus, Sturt's Desert Rose and a critically endangered turtle.

If you want something a bit shorter than the "Explore Roma Town" half-day tour may be just what the doctor ordered. Share a few hours with a local guide for an insight into the colourful history and present-day goings-on in and around Roma. Uncover how the town transformed, learn about the industries it supports while keeping an eye out for some of our local characters. Find our hidden treasures like Hero's Avenue, specular stain glass windows, our biggest Bottle Tree and the Roma Bush Gardens.

10 things you didn't know about the Wet Tropics Rainforest

Author: Tourism Tropical North Queensland – Hannah Statham

RIDDLE ME THIS...

What do Kylie Minogue, Nicole Kidman and the Wet Tropics Rainforest all have in common?

They're all Australian, the oldest in their family and more famous than the rest of their bloodline. Yep, serious overachievers. However, for all the trivia facts you might know about our Kylie and Nic when it comes to the Wet Tropics, we reckon you might draw a blank if asked a question about Australia's A-list rainforest, which grows from Townsville to Cooktown. Get to know the famous forest, which spans 8940 square-kilometers, with this list of 10 things you didn't know about the Wet Tropics.

1. The Wet Tropics are crawling with animals

Despite the Wet Tropics only taking up 0.2 percent of Australia's landmass, it's habitat to more than a quarter of the marsupial species in the country – a factoid worthy of professor Stephen Williams labelling the Southern Atherton area “the most biodiverse location in Australia”. More than just marsupials, the Wet Tropics has plenty of winged creatures in its habitat – in particular, 58 percent of all Australian bat species, 58 percent of the butterfly species and 40 percent of bird species. The best way to spot the lot is to join a nature tour.

2. The Wet Tropics have distinct precincts

Considering the Wet Tropics runs for 450 kilometres, it's no surprise to find that this mega forest is actually made up of 29 different national parks. In fact, this rainforest stops and starts along the coastline and has six different precincts, each with its own identity and microhabitat. From the Daintree in the north to Paluma Range in the south, of the entire Wet Tropics landmass, 79 percent is a national park, making this World Heritage-listed area accessible and affordable, since all national parks are completely free to visit. All you need is a pair of boots to discover this rainforest, with roots so deep that it predates the Amazon.

3. The oldest creature you'll find isn't the Cassowary

Contrary to what your pub trivia team might have you believe, the oldest animal in the Wet Tropics is not the Cassowary or the Crocodile... it's about 400 million years more senior and looks like a cross between a worm and a crab. Introducing... the velvet worm, which measures 10 centimeters (at best) and has more than 500 million years to its species' name. Despite their soft and cuddly moniker – velvet worms are far from it – they're carnivorous critters, which probably explains why they've done so well for themselves throughout the ages. Keep your eyes peeled on the forest floor for the chance to spot them. You'll be looking for a small worm, not unlike a caterpillar, save for its clawed legs, an adaptation worthy of a Frankenstein movie.

4. Civilisation dates back more than 5000 years

If ever you thought cooking practices have never been so refined, we take your molecular gastronomy and raise it an overnight stay in the Wet Tropics. Before European settlement, there were 18 different Aboriginal groups living in the Wet Tropics World Heritage area, with over 20,000 nomadic people, speaking six languages and living in their various precincts. Even more mind-blowing than the number of communities is the fact they were living among 14 different toxic plants, which they were able to eat, thanks to highly advanced cooking techniques – the kind that took western civilizations years to perfect. Evidence of leaching, fermenting, and sun-drying is well documented among Aboriginal people who lived sustainably among the forest until the early explorers disrupted their 5000 years of existence. A Dreamtime Walk at the Mossman Gorge Centre is one of the best ways to hear these ancient rainforest tales.

5. You'll need an Encyclopaedia to spot all the plants

It'll come as no surprise that the rainforests of the Wet Tropics are the most diverse in Australia if judged by plant species type and structure. As if this isn't credential enough, it's also home to some of the world's most primitive flowering plants. If thinking about visiting, buy a plant book, because you'll run out of fingers to count the 3000 vascular plant species in this forest, which is just one of the ways this rainforest contributes to the “outstanding universal value” criteria for UNESCO.

6. Some of the animals are rarer than a panda bear

Don't be alarmed if you haven't heard about this very rare, white variety of the lemuroid ringtail possum – it's so rare, that its plight for survival is more damned than the panda bear. So endangered is this white and fluffy emblem of the forest, that it's thought that there are just four of them alive today. This endangered species is only found 1000 metres above sea level in the Carbine Tablelands and parts of the Atherton Tablelands. It's main threat to survival is global warming, as these white puffs of fluff can't survive for more than five hours at temperatures above 30 degrees. With evolution, they've been climbing higher and higher to escape the heat, but once they reach the tallest branches of the forest, there will be nowhere else for them to go. While your chance of seeing them would be like spotting a needle in a haystack, you can discover more about them at the Malanda Visitor Information Centre.

7. Not everyone wanted it to become World Heritage-listed

The phrase 'there are two sides to every story' couldn't ring more true of the Wet Tropics heritage listing in 1988. In fact, it divided the community of Ravenshoe, who built their livelihoods on logging this ancient timber. The Ravenshoe Visitor Information Centre, shares clippings from newspapers detailing the outrage, as the town's logging history was chopped down. While the town of Ravenshoe, incidentally, Queensland's highest town, might be a shadow of its former population because the workers had to move to greener pastures (pun intended), there's no doubt the Wet Tropics meet the UNESCO criteria, and its listing has done great things to protect it. Trailheads to the Misty Mountains wilderness tracks are found in the dense rainforest just outside of Ravenshoe and flow through the Wet Tropics to Tully, Innisfail, Mena Creek, Millaa Millaa, traversing Tully Falls, Tully Gorge, and Wooroonooran National Park.

8. Kangaroos actually climb trees here

Not just any kangaroo, the Lumholtz's and Bennett's tree-kangaroo, are a species that's only found in the Wet Tropics. One of our favourite quotes about these mysterious 'roos comes from William Hann in 1872, who said, "to entertain the idea that any kangaroo could climb a tree would be ridiculous." Despite his certainty, Hann can be proven wrong quite easily with a trip to their habitat. Mupee's as they're known in the local Indigenous dialect, live high in the rainforest canopy and are best described as a blend between the possum and the kangaroo, which evolved over 50 million years ago. Fun fact - its forearms, feet, claws and tail have evolved in response to the canopy - and this is the only 'roo that can move backwards. While there are no guarantees for places to spot these wild creatures, we recommend a visit to the Nerarda Tree Plantation for a possible encounter with a Lumholtz's and the Jindalba Boardwalk in the Daintree Rainforest to spy on a Bennett's.

9. You can spot (and climb) Queensland's highest peaks and swim in a waterfall afterwards

You'll often find Queensland's tallest mountain pop up as a pub trivia question - and while you might have known its Mount Bartle Frere (1622 metres), did you know it's found in Tropical North Queensland? You'll find it south of Cairns on the Cassowary

Coast, next to its tall cousin, Bellenden Kerr (1592 metres), sitting like two camel humps in the landscape. Their lofty heights bring tropical monsoon conditions to the surrounding areas and plenty of waterfalls that go with it. Experience the full force of Bartle Frere with a dip in the granite playground of Josephine Falls - or if you're feeling full of beans, why not climb the mountain yourself? The walk can be started from Josephine Falls, near the small town of Innisfail, or from the Atherton Tablelands.

10. It's full of volcanic lakes and craters

10,000 - 20,000 years ago when Australia was a volcanic mass, Atherton Tablelands would have been a place to avoid - spewing molten lava from its highly active volcanic core. Although it's long been dormant, you don't need to wear your history goggles to get a real sense of what the area would have looked like. Instead, you'll find a real-life geology lesson with a visit to the Tablelands' many craters. Make a stop at the twin volcanic crater lakes, Lake Barrine and Lake Eacham, to see examples of maars, formed by the superheating of groundwater. In each you'll find tranquil pools of inky blue water that are fringed entirely by rainforest. Both lakes are noticeably deep 65 metres to be precise, and come with their own myths and legends. You'll want to take a tour like Tableland Adventure Guides' kayaking tour of Lake Barrine to hear them for yourself.

Kuranda Scenic Railway

Author: Vagabonds of Sweden

We recently started our one-year road trip adventure along the Australian East Coast in Cairns. This became our base right away for finding a van and converting it into a campervan, while at the same time giving us the choice of doing some day trips in the vicinity to places like Cape Tribulation and the Daintree Rainforest.

Having been in Cairns for about four weeks, we happily discovered this beautiful train ride with Queensland Rail Travel called the Kuranda Scenic Railway. This railway supposedly went up in the mountains through tropical rainforest, past waterfalls, via 15 tunnels and over 37 bridges to finally end up in the picturesque village of Kuranda. It sounded like a dream. Is this train ride worthy of its reputation and fine reviews? We just had to check it out for ourselves and decided to give it a full day out.

What Is Kuranda Scenic Railway?

The Kuranda Scenic Railway is a 1-hour, 45-minute train ride stretching 34 kilometres between Cairns and Kuranda. It offers spectacular views of the surroundings about 328 metres above sea level. A truly unforgettable experience. We were absolutely amazed by the beauty of the train ride itself and just loved the way the whole train sort of quietly rocked you to the sounds of clickety-clack while slowly rolling forward, with windows down giving us the chance to smell the rainforest and feel the fresh breeze in our hair.

It felt a bit like travelling back in time. All along the train ride, you get a history lesson and you are not only mesmerized by the stories of the past and the incredible feat of 1500 men constructing the railway but you also get to enjoy the ride sitting in beautiful carriages made from silky oak timber that date back to the early 1900s. And for us, travelling in Gold Class, we also had the pleasure of tasting exquisite cheese, crackers, sparkling wine, beer and mango sorbet ice cream – making it a surreal experience we can hardly forget. Surely it is one of the most epic train rides we have ever done and the Gold Class experience was just the icing on the cake.

In addition, the service onboard was nothing short of excellent. Throughout the whole train ride, we were well taken care of and the train attendant even gave us heads up when some of the more famous attractions along the track showed up.

Prices

The Gold Class experience, such as the one we did will cost you $99 per adult one way or $174 per adult for a return ticket. It is well worth the price considering everything you get in return.

"When visiting Cairns and Queensland – this is an experience not to be missed."

Location

The Kuranda Scenic Railway stretches from Cairns Station to Freshwater and then onto Kuranda Station. If you travel from Cairns you can hop on the train at Cairns Central. We travelled the other way around from Kuranda towards Cairns. The Gold Class experience is only available between Freshwater Station and Kuranda, or the other way around – but of course, everyone can commence or end their journey at Cairns Station.

Book Your Experience

To enjoy this epic train ride, a journey you will never forget, you can fill out the booking enquiry and reserve your tickets on Kuranda Scenic Railway's website or simply show up to the ticket office at Cairns, Freshwater or Kuranda Station. However, we suggest booking in advance because it is highly popular and tickets are prone to sell out, especially on weekends.

seven of the best local farmers markets in Queensland

Author: Tourism and Events Queensland – Hannah Statham

Queensland's agricultural industry is the third-largest food processing industry in Australia, which makes sense considering the state is 81 percent farmland. The best way to meet the farmers, makers and growers and fill your basket with the freshest local produce you can get is to visit a local farmers market. Here's seven to try first:

Noosa Farmers Market, Noosa

No weekend in Noosa would be complete without a visit to the Noosa Farmers Market. You'll find everything from organic fruit and veg to bush foods, freshly-squeezed drinks and the kind of homemade marinades that will leave your dinner guests asking, "what was that incredible sauce you put on the burger"? Bring a cooler bag for take-home treats like freshly-caught sustainable seafood, meats from Kilkivan and creamy Gympie Farm cheeses.

Find it: 155 Weyba Rd, Noosaville, every Sunday 7.00am to 12.00pm.

Good to know: Get your mitts on the market speciality – handmade quality olive oils, olive tapenade and fresh olives from Kilkivan's Fat Hen Farm.

Gold Coast Organic Market, Miami

If you prefer your fruit and veggies served without a side of pesticide, a trip to the Organic Gold Coast Farmers Market is akin to walking through the gates of organic heaven. Why? To even get a market stall on the Miami High School oval, all producers must be Certified Organically Grown, so you know they are the real deal. Spice up your morning smoothie bowl with 'picked yesterday produce' alongside more hard-to-find veggies like dandelion greens, daikon radish and chard. Once you've stocked up on produce, crusty bread and fresh juices, you can start organic-ifying your house with cleaning products, cosmetics, clothing and bedding. Make like a local and pick up kombucha to keep you hydrated while you wander.

Find it: Miami High State School, Gold Coast Hwy, Miami, every Sunday, 6.00am to 11.30am.

Good to know: Sick of having the same old breakfast each morning? Pick up homemade jams, sauces and nut-butters.

Jan Powers Farmers Markets, Brisbane Powerhouse

The market matriarch of Brisbane, Jan Powers takes over the Powerhouse in New Farm for weekends filled with farm-fresh produce. Within the stalls, you'll find everything from fresh fruit and veggies, homemade bread, meat, and plants to fresh plates of pasta. Arrive with hands as empty as your stomach because this market is as much about produce to cook yourself as food trucks that have everything assembled. With a focus on international cuisine, you can chow down on the likes of croissants, dumplings, pizzas and yakitori.

Find it: The Brisbane Powerhouse, 119 Lamington St, New Farm, every Saturday 6.00am to 12.00pm.

Good to know: If shopping with little ones, New Farm Park is right around the corner if you need to trade 30 minutes on the swings for two hours of nag-free shopping.

Rusty's Markets, Cairns

Since pushing up its roller doors in 1975, Rusty's Markets in Cairns has been a Tropical North Queensland institution – worthy of being this high on your holiday agenda. This is no run-of-the-mill market – Rusty's is more of a three-day event that turns the base of Gilligan's Backpacker Hotel & Resort into a hawker-style market that wouldn't be out of place in the streets of Southeast Asia. Within its CBD footprint, Rusty's packs 180 stalls of exotic fruit, vegetables, fresh bread and a host of international food stalls, which cover everything from hot and spicy samosas to Vietnamese coffee. If you've never seen tropical fruits up close, prepare for bright colours straight out of a Lewis Carroll novel, like eye-popping dragon fruit, rambutans and mangosteens. And if you have change left over from your weekly grocery shop, you can also splurge on the bric-a-brac on offer too.

Find it: 57-89 Grafton St, Cairns City, Friday and Saturday 5.00am to 6.00pm, Sunday 5.00am to 3.00pm.

Good to know: You'll find parking above the market and you get two hours free.

Whether it grows on trees, under the soil, comes from a paddock or is plucked from the ocean you can bet you can get it in Queensland.

My Local Feast Farmers Markets, Toowoomba

The people behind Toowoomba's Farmers Market aren't just advocates for good food but also social change – with a mission to teach consumers exactly where their food comes from. You'll find the markets on the grounds of the Cobb+Co Museum, selling everything from fruit and vegetables from the Lockyer Valley and Southern Downs to organic meat, free from preservatives and direct from the farmer. It's not just exotic 'maybe I'll use that one-day' ingredients – My Local Feast cover everything from the basics like gourmet salt and pepper to stalls entirely dedicated to figs.

Find it: The Mills Precinct, Ruthven and Campbell St, Toowoomba, every Wednesday from 2.00pm to 7.00pm and at Cobb+Co Museum, 27 Lindsay St, Toowoomba, every Saturday from 7.00am to 12.00pm.

Good to know: You can find Australian-grown garlic in abundance here. Trust us, you'll smell Budgee Garlic & Herbs before you see them!

Greater Whitsundays Farmers Market, River Street Twilight Market, Mackay

Riddle us this: What do you get when your Friday night drinks collide with your weekly grocery shop? Find your answer at the River Street Twilight Market in Mackay. A basket for produce is a must along with a picnic rug to toss down under the stars to listen to live music along the riverfront. There's no need to race home from this market to quickly cook up your produce. Ever-changing food trucks will ensure you're not doing your groceries on an empty stomach.

Find it: River St, Mackay, every second Friday of each month (except January) from 4.00pm to 8.00pm.

Good to know: Parking is a cinch for this market, making short work of lugging your pumpkins back to the car.

Urangan Pier Park Markets, Hervey Bay

The Urangan Pier Park Markets in Hervey Bay may well be Queensland's most picturesque market, running adjacent to the iconic 868-metre pier. Between all the handicrafts you'll find a fresh produce scene that has locals beating a track to the waterfront markets each weekend. Tune in to the Facebook page for the regular specials and comings and goings such as The Seafood Smokery Bundaberg, loaded with the likes of macadamia-smoked Spanish mackerel loins. The fish is served the traditional way, smoked with nothing but Bundaberg raw sugar, salt and a blend of local timber shavings.

Find it: Pier Park, Urangan, every Wednesday and Saturday 7.00am to 1.00pm.

Good to know: Got a sweet tooth? Beware the Dutch pancake stand (poffertjes). Picture pancakes, fresh cream and drizzled chocolate and you've just found the breakfast of champions.

where to eat for that Summer Seafood Fix

Author: Tourism and Events Queensland – Hannah Statham and Jennifer Ennion

When you're in the heart of the Great Barrier Reef or holidaying along the Fraser Coast, you can expect some pretty fine seafood platters and seafood restaurants to be on offer on dry land.

Bareboating caterers, cafes with stellar views, and celebrity-studded island restaurants are among the best places to get your seafood fix in Queensland. And to make it that little bit more special, some have shared their recipes. And yes, we recommend trying these at home!

AIRLIE BEACH

Fish D'vine, Airlie Beach

Considered an institution, every visitor to the Whitsundays should dine at least once at Fish D'vine, a lively restaurant and rum bar in Airlie Beach. In a state renowned for its fresh seafood, Fish D'vine is easily one of the best places to splurge on mud crab. You can order it three ways: wok-tossed in a Thai curry sauce, with a spicy pepper sauce, or served natural and chilled. Open from 5.00pm, this laid-back eatery has a tonne of other seafood dishes, too.

The Boathouse Fishbar, Port of Airlie Marina

Another restaurant you can't go past is The Boathouse FishBar, where the menu is swarming with crustaceans and their ocean friends. The trendy menu options include a salmon sashimi poke bowl, a soft-shell crab burger and seafood pie. There are also themed nights, such as oyster Tuesday, prawn-bucket Thursday and seafood-platter Saturday.

Tides Restaurant and Bar, Airlie Beach

Away from the hub of Airlie town centre, Tides Restaurant and Bar is among the best hotel restaurants you'll find in the region. Chef Gregory Devine is the mastermind behind it all and is passionate about sourcing local produce for an Asian-infused modern Australian menu. Go at night for the "four tastes of the sea" dish that includes a half-shell scallop with Champagne mornay.

HAMILTON ISLAND

Bommie Restaurant, Hamilton Island Yacht Club, Hamilton Island

One of the region's most picturesque places to dine is Bommie Restaurant on Hamilton Island, but you don't only come for the water views. Celebrate a special holiday with a delicate plate of cold-smoked ocean trout and Hydeaway Bay squid, while enjoying a glass of Champagne or two. Be sure to make a reservation.

Coca Chu, Hamilton Island

Fun, modern and with a sharing-style street-hawker menu, Coca Chu has locals – and regular visitors – talking. Try the salt and pepper cuttlefish or tiger prawn betel leaf to start, before moving onto the Moreton Bay bug curry. You can enjoy it all while watching dusk descend on Hamilton Island's popular Catseye Beach.

Mariners, Hamilton Island

Casual but sophisticated, the menu at Mariners has recently been given an overhaul by Hamilton Island Yacht Club Executive Chef Trent Dawson. It now has a strong Japanese influence and dishes that will excite you. Expect yellowtail with buttermilk, scallops with finger lime, octopus with rice wine, and seafood platters unlike any you've seen before.

FRASER COAST

Vinyard Wine Bar & Restaurant, Urangan

With a philosophy that “wine and food are at their very best when they coexist”, The Vinyard Wine Bar & Restaurant thoughtfully pairs some of the world’s best wines with modern cuisine and local produce. Take the guesswork out of choosing what to order, following the chef’s selection for the best the region has to offer, including Hervey Bay scallops served ceviche style with chilli and fennel, so you can taste the molluscs that put this region on the map. As a special treat, they have shared their secret recipe!

Hervey Bay Scallop Ceviche

Serves 4

Ingredients

12 raw fresh scallops (in shell) • 1 cup (fresh) lemon juice • 3/4 cup of castor sugar (taste to balance out) • 50ml lime juice (fresh) • 1 tablespoon of lemon zest • Pinch of salt • 200g fine diced fennel bulb • 1 large red chilli fine diced (remove seeds) • 50g golden shallots or spinach onion fine diced • Mint, coriander, and flat-leaf parsley fine diced and added to taste • 50ml extra virgin olive oil

Method

1. Mix all of the above together.
2. Add your fresh Hervey Bay scallops (shell off) ensuring the liquid is covering the scallop meat, let sit for approx. 10-15 minutes, until the translucent scallop meat has turned a whiter shade.
3. Plate the scallops back into the original shell (or serving spoon) and cover with some of the liquid and chopped herbs.

Beach House Hotel, Scarness

Forget what you know of the old Beach House – this pub has had one hell of a multi-million dollar facelift – and the building looks like it stepped off the set of The OC and onto the Esplanade. To celebrate local produce and their love for seafood, you can now make one of their favourite dishes at home.

Seafood Pasta

Ingredients

2 tablespoons olive oil • 100g unsalted butter, chopped • 4 garlic cloves, chopped • 1/2 diced onion • 1 1/2 cups (375ml) white wine • 250g cherry tomatoes halved • 2 tablespoons of chopped shallots • 32 green ocean king prawns (peeled and deveined tails left on if you like) • 2 whole cooked sand crabs cleaned and cut in half • 250g chorizo (we used Scott’s Mad About Meats Smoked Chorizo) • 400g fettuccini (we used Fraser Coast Artisan Pasta – Turmeric Fettuccini, cooked in salted water for 5-6 minutes)

Method

1. Heat oil in a frypan over medium heat. Cook the garlic and chilli, stirring, for 2-3 minutes until fragrant.
2. Add the wine, and cook for 5 minutes until it starts to reduce.
3. Add the cherry tomatoes and chorizo, then, stirring constantly, add the butter, 1 piece at a time, making sure each piece is incorporated before adding the next.
4. Add seafood and cook for 5-6 minutes until cooked.
5. Remove the crab and put to one side, add the pasta to the sauce. Toss to combine, then add shallots and season.
6. Serve in bowl or plate with half crab on top and garnished with micro herbs.

Coast Restaurant, Hervey Bay

Hervey Bay dining institution, Coast, has been the Fraser Coast’s go-to dinner spot for the best part of a decade, launching onto the scene in 2010. Since then, they’ve been blurring the line between comfort food and fine-dining with an onus on fresh seafood and local produce, earning a place on this list of regional Queensland restaurants worth driving for. It’s all about share plates here, like slow-cooked lamb shoulder, beef short ribs and red pepper and cumin-spiced chicken, which can be devoured across the table. To help capture those summer vibes, Coast has shared their crowd favourite below.

Northern Blue Fin Tuna, Avocado, Ponzu and Seeded Crackers

Serves 4

Ingredients

250g sashimi-grade northern bluefin tuna - diced • 1 long red chilli - deseeded and brunoise • 40g avocado purée • 20g chives - thinly sliced • 20g pork scratchings • 50ml ponzu dressing (Japanese citrus dressing) • 400g seeded crackers (or any other crackers you desire) • Good quality salt to taste • Micro coriander for garnish

Method

1. Mix together the tuna, ponzu, chilli, chives. Season with a little bit of good quality salt to taste.
2. Split the tuna mix into four and plate evenly into a circle mould (cookie cutter).
3. Top the tuna with avocado purée in small dots.
4. Break up the scratchings so they are easy enough to eat and place between the avocado purée.
5. Garnish with micro coriander and place the seed crackers on the side of the dish.

THE ESSENTIAL

Author: Tourism and Events Queensland – Kate Wienburg

Holidays used to be about making sure you got the perfect golden tan, meeting amazing people and creating memories that last a lifetime. Not anymore. Today, the only way to determine if you've had an amazing holiday is based on how good your Instagram photos are. You need the stunning sunsets, perfectly-timed jumps and classic aeroplane shots to show your friends YOU are the best at taking a holiday.

This list will guarantee their jealousy will be off the charts and you can go home with a smile on your face... even without a perfect tan!

1. HOLDING A SURFBOARD

Whether you take a surf lesson or just end up on the beach at sunrise after a long night, get a friend to snap a pic of you with a surfboard.

2. SHIPWRECK

Luckily Queensland has a few shipwrecks for you to choose from: The Maheno Wreck on Fraser Island, Tangalooma Wrecks on Moreton Island and Wreck Diving on Magnetic Island.

3. FOOTSTEPS

These shots can be taken anywhere that your foot leaves a mark. Sand, red soil – this is your chance to get creative!

4. FERRIS WHEEL

When you visit Brisbane's South Bank, you have to get a snap of the iconic Wheel of Brisbane.

5. FACING QUEENSLAND

Face the ocean, face the sunset, just face Queensland.

6. CUDDLING A KOALA

Queensland is only one of two states in Australia that let you get this close to these incredibly cute critters!

7. UNDERWATER

Bring an underwater camera when hitting the Great Barrier Reef for a snorkelling or scuba adventure. You can find sea turtles at several places including Lady Elliot Island and Green Island.

8. JUMP SHOT

Prepare to get wet or dirty to ensure you get the ultimate jump shot.

9. SCENERY

Queensland scenery is vast, take your time and take in all the amazing scenery.

10. SAND WRITING

These photos are great for using in photo books to label each beach you visit in Queensland. They're also useful to send messages back home to jealous friends and family. #wishyouwerehere

11. ICE CREAM IN PARADISE

Nothing will incite more jealousy than a delicious looking ice-cream cone with paradise for a backdrop. Trust me.

12. AEROPLANE VIEW

Whether you're flying in from overseas or taking a small plane up the coast, ALWAYS ask for a window seat. These photos can be unbelievable when the angle and lighting are right.

13. PALM TREES

Nothing says the tropics like a shot of palm trees. Sunrise and sunset really make these beauties shine.

14. RED DIRT IN THE OUTBACK

Mix up those blue ocean/beach shots with some beautiful red dirt on a trip to the outback. Visit Winton or Birdsville to really get a feel for one of these great communities.

15. MOUNTAIN TOP

Head to one of these spots to get the best views of Queensland (also one of the best places to catch sunrise or sunset). Try Picnic Point in Toowoomba, Passage Peak on Hamilton Island or Mount Cooroy on the Sunshine Coast.

16. COUNTRY WINDMILL

There is more to Queensland than just beaches and sunsets... a short drive into the country will open you up to a world of rolling hills, farmland and gorgeous scenery. Don't miss an opportunity to snap a windmill at sunset!

17. CURTAIN FIG TREE

This incredible tree is located in the Atherton Tablelands and is just a short drive from the small town of Yungaburra. It's massive. Make sure to get into the pic to show your friends how big the tree really is!

18. CHILLING IN A HAMMOCK

At some point during your tropical holiday, you need to be in a hammock. Bonus points if you can hang it between palm trees and stay to watch the sunset.

19. WATERFALLS

Don't go chasing waterfalls... but if you do, check out our top nine romantic waterfalls on page 8!

20. OUTBACK TOURIST ICON

It's not just the coast of Queensland that has some of the most iconic tourist spots - Outback Queensland has its fair share too! Outback towns such as Normanton is home to the iconic Gulflander, a locomotive that goes 'nowhere to nowhere'.

21. I'M ON A BOAT!

If you've been living under a rock and haven't seen the video, Google it right now. Otherwise, you get the idea.

22. KANGAROO ON A BEACH!

Head to Cape Hillsborough, less than an hour from Mackay, to see the kangaroos come to the beach every morning for sunrise. It's an early wake-up call but worth every second.

23. SAND DUNES

Check out some of the amazing sand dunes in the outback and islands in Queensland when you can. Sand ripples for days!

24. JETTY

The lines of a jetty or pier work really well in the Instagram feed. Check out these beauties: Redcliffe Jetty in Brisbane, Urangan Pier in Hervey Bay and The Spit on the Gold Coast.

25. SUNRISE OR SUNSET

There is nothing an Instagram user double-taps more than a stunning sunset or sunrise. Make sure you stay until the end (preferably with a cup of coffee or glass of wine) and watch the colours change.

Tilt Train

"Recently we took the Tilt Train to Maryborough West then a bus to Hervey Bay. I must say Queensland Rail are very well organised. We have now been in several of their trains. This train was no exception.

Trains are very prompt and it's easy to find your seat. Seats are extremely comfortable. Meals are well organised and very pleasant. And reasonably priced too. If you have ear phones you can listen to music or there are a few shows they have operating on a screen above.

When we arrived at our destination the bus was waiting for us. The bus driver was excellent and took us to our hotel as it was very near the bus transit depot. On our return we did exactly the same, with no problem at all. The Tilt Train was a thoroughly enjoyable and easy way to travel."

MY FAVOURITE LONG DISTANCE TRAIN

Reviewed by David L

"I have been on this Brisbane to Cairns train a few times before, so it is the right time for a review. I have not been on most of the other Queensland long distance trains, so I am comparing the Spirit of Queensland to other trains I have been on, the ones that go Brisbane to Sydney, then Sydney to Melbourne.

This Spirit of Queensland train is easily the best. Nice big seats, lots of leg room, lots of foot room. Nice reclining seat. Free small blanket if you want one (brand new blanket still in its packet). Fantastic big dining area in the buffet carriage, so you can chat with other travelers.

But wait!! The best two parts of the ride, one unlike other long-distance trains in New South Wales and Victoria, on the Brisbane to Cairns train, you can plug in and charge your mobile phone and laptop! Two, small TVs are built into the back of all seats, so you can watch tv shows and movies!

No need to say more, 10 out of 10. Very nice."

Lee Carseldine jumped aboard The Inlander and the first stop was Mary Kathleen, located in the Selwyn Range between Mount Isa and Cloncurry. Joining North West Tours, Lee explored this fascinating place, once Australia's largest Uranium Mine which was abandoned in 1980.

During their trip on The Inlander, Lee and the crew from Queensland Weekender witnessed a beautiful sunrise out of the window before arriving into the mining hub and rodeo capital of Queensland, Mount Isa. Adeles Grove was next on their list for some rest and relaxation, before returning to enjoy more action of the Mount Isa Rodeo.

SAMMIE O'BRIEN – THE WESTLANDER

Sammie O'Brien recently travelled to Outback Queensland to shoot an episode for Queensland Weekender featuring the Cunnamulla Fella Festival.

Along the way, she stopped overnight at Roma to visit the stunning Carnarvon Ranges with BOOBOOK Eco Tours. Queensland Rail Travel was lucky enough to have Sammie and the Channel 7 crew join The Westlander at Roma and travel to Charleville before heading further west to Cunnamulla.

BRIDGET ADAMS – SPIRIT OF QUEENSLAND

Travel Reporter Bridget Adams hopped aboard the Spirit of Queensland to experience the comfort and convenience of travelling by RailBed.

Embarking in Brisbane and making the journey all the way through to Cairns, Bridget and the Queensland Weekender crew enjoyed their modern rail experience as much as the Queensland Rail Travel staff enjoyed hosting them. On arrival into Cairns, the crew then made their way onwards to see the best of Far North Queensland, namely the rainforest and the Great Barrier Reef!

Queensland's Year of Outback Tourism

Railway station - Barcardine

2019 has been a celebration of Outback Tourism in Queensland, as visitor numbers grow and the events and attractions on offer are ever-expanding. Queensland Rail's Travel network provides a connection not only to Outback Queensland but also to the history of the development of the railways in Queensland.

Many towns in Outback Queensland trace their beginnings to when the steel rails that crept in from the east (in many cases) joined them to a far-distant world. The arrival of the steam train, its whistle, and the goods, people, news and many thousand items we take for granted today (such as linen, animals and alcohol) marked the beginning of an important time for many Queenslanders.

Some of the great 'railway Outback towns' are those on the 'central railway' journey of the Spirit of the Outback from Brisbane to Longreach. Construction westward from Emerald began in May of 1879.

In 1880 surveys were completed to take the line over the most difficult section of construction, the Drummond Range via Hannams Gap, between Emerald and Alpha. Alpha Creek was reached on 22 September 1884.

Alpha was a railway construction centre, and one of the wildest places on the central railway. The unplanned makeshift town was according to one writer, "lawless and rough, the scene of wild free-for-all disorder." Alpha as a township or camp was not expected to last as the line went west. But survive it did.

What was unromantically referred to as 'section eight' of the central railway ended at the 370 mile (595 kilometre) mark from Rockhampton, 20 kilometres west of Barcardine.

Barcardine was established as a town as it was the closest point to the established wool towns of Aramac and Blackall. Construction lapsed on further movement west at the end of 1886 and did not resume until 1889 – towards the Thomson River and what would become Longreach.

One of the signature events for the Year of Outback Tourism was recognised earlier this year with the Cobb & Co Festival centred on the towns of Surat and Yuleba. This festival recognised the 95th anniversary of the final run of a Cobb & Co coach in Australia. Cobb & Co are famous as a company for their stage coaches that ran throughout much of country Australia and even in New Zealand. The company complemented the arrival of the railway into what had been their territory.

From 1865 they even offered a co-ordinated train/coach service between the then 'end of the line' at Bigges Camp (Grandchester) to Toowoomba. The last scheduled Cobb & Co service to run in Australia was between Surat and Yuleba in August 1924.

Queensland Rail Travel is proud to connect with Outback Queensland where visitor experiences are incredibly diverse, from Indigenous cultural connections to the Barcardine Tree of Knowledge and the Dinosaur Trail. Just as in 1865, modern Queensland outback adventures take place in some of the most unforgiving yet picturesque landscapes in the country.

Multicultural Queensland

This year's Multicultural Queensland Month, the state's largest celebration of our cultural diversity was held in August and was, once again a huge success.

Queensland is a multicultural success story and the month is an opportunity to showcase and celebrate our unique diversity and its benefits. People from across the state joined together to perform, share, taste, listen, learn and acknowledge that, while we may come from different cultures, we all love living in Queensland.

This year Queenslanders acknowledged the enormous benefits multiculturalism offers our state's culture and prosperity through the theme "We all belong".

Queensland Rail once again supported Queensland's cultural diversity by promoting the month across the Queensland Rail network. The highlight of Queensland Rail's support was the two Multicultural Queensland Month trains that travelled throughout the Citytrain network.

A variety of events and activities were held during August including the Love You Queensland Tour by Pub Choir visiting 10 regional locations, the Multicultural Plaza Music Stage at the Ekka where the first Ekka Citizenship Ceremony was held, the Multicultural Race Day at Doomben Racecourse and the AFL's Brisbane Lions and Gold Coast Suns hosted Multicultural Rounds.

The month concluded with the Multicultural Queensland Awards where the valuable contributions of Queenslanders who support and promote an inclusive, harmonious and united Queensland community were recognised. The awards are highly anticipated annually by Queensland's multicultural community, bringing together representatives from a range of community, corporate and other key contributors to our state's rich multicultural identity.

The gala dinner was attended by over 400 guests and acknowledged the winners of the nine categories. Queensland Rail, represented by Executive General Manager People and Culture Rebecca Munn, was proud to present the Outstanding Individual Achiever award to Anna Voloschenko alongside the Minister for Multicultural Affairs Stirling Hinchliffe. As a public health practitioner and registered psychologist, Anna has been actively involved with diverse communities for over 30 years in a variety of paid and volunteer roles. Through her work, Anna has effectively platformed health issues facing culturally and linguistically diverse Queenslanders, including reproductive health, chronic disease, cancer screening and nutrition.

You can read more about the inspiring 2019 winners and finalists at qld.gov.au/MQA.

YESTERDAY

This heart-warming celebration of the musical brilliance of the Beatles starts with the unlikely premise of a world that has forgotten the Fab Four and their music.

When struggling singer-songwriter Jack Malik finds himself the only one who can remember classics such as Yesterday, Hey Jude and Strawberry Fields after a power blackout, he succumbs to the temptation to pass off the songs as his own. Soon the world, including real-life Ed Sheeran, is hailing him as a musical genius and he is performing to massive adoring crowds.

Despite this somewhat fantastical plot, the film maintains its grip on reality as Jack struggles with accepting success built upon a lie and having to choose between fast fame and firm friendships. Fine performances by Hamish Patel as Jack and Lily James as Ellie, his childhood friend and greatest support and, of course, a soundtrack of some of the best songs ever written, make this a truly delightful two hours of entertainment.

Rail Safety

Our aim is to make your journey as comfortable and secure as we can, all whilst preserving the property of Queensland Rail and our customers. Our onboard staff are here to ensure your journey is as pleasant as possible. If you have any queries or require assistance, please do not hesitate to advise one of our friendly onboard staff.

Train Movement is sudden and unpredictable

It's important to know that while on board our train you may experience some unexpected train movement. Think of it as 'train turbulence'.

Just like with air turbulence, train movement is sudden and unpredictable.

Remember a seated customer is a safe customer. If you need to move about the train, it's important you hold the grab rails and be aware of your surroundings.

Some helpful travel tips to ensure your journey is pleasant and hassle-free.

- Please use the grab rails, backs of seats or the corridor walls as you move through the train, as unexpected train movement can cause injury.
- Please keep the aisles clear at all times, and place bags and other items in the overhead compartments.
- It's important to note that each platform may be a little different each time you travel with us. Always watch your step when boarding or disembarking the train. Please be mindful of the gap between the train and the platform.

Summer Sun Safety

While living in a state that's positively swimming in sun is amazing, it's not all sunshine and roses. Queenslanders are at high-risk when it comes to those necessary, but damaging UVA and UVB rays.

According to Cancer Council Australia, approximately two in three Australians will be diagnosed with skin cancer by the time they are 70. The number of people treated in Australia each year, for one or more non-melanoma skin cancers is staggering, affecting more than 750,000 people. When excluding non-melanoma skin cancers, melanoma is the third most common cancer experienced by Australians. Every year in Australia skin cancers accounts for approximately 80% of all newly diagnosed cancers, with the majority of skin cancers a result of too much exposure to the sun.

With the strength of the sun increasing over the summer months and our endless desire to get out there and enjoy it, we want you to familiarise yourself with the types of skin cancer, the risk factors and preventative measures, so that you can keep living your best and healthiest life (and enjoy that sunshine).

EARLY DETECTION AND PREVENTATIVE STEPS

When it comes to skin cancer, prevention is better than a cure. However, if you do develop a skin cancer, the earlier it is identified and treated, the better your chance of avoiding surgery, potential disfigurement, pain and in some cases, death.

- Protect your skin – apply a 30 SPF or higher, broad spectrum, water resistant sunscreen 20 minutes before sun exposure, slip on protective clothing (long sleeves etc), wear a broad brim hat, sunglasses and seek the shade wherever possible.
- Regularly check your own body in good lighting and be sure to check all over, including the soles of the feet, between fingers, toes and under nails.
- Use a mirror for hard to see locations, such as your back or scalp, or ask a friend or family member to assist.
- Pay close and regular attention to your skin – if you notice something suspicious or any changes, visit your doctor as soon as possible.
- Use the A, B, C, D, E method when checking your own skin:
 - A for Asymmetry* – if a line were drawn down the middle of a spot, the two sides wouldn't match.
 - B for Border* – is it a spot with a spreading or irregular edge?
 - C for Colour* – is it blotchy, with multiple colours (black, blue, red, white/grey)?
 - D for Diameter* – are the spots bigger than 6mm?
 - E for Evolving* – are the spots changing and growing?

There are three main types of skin cancer:

Basal Cell Carcinoma (BCC) – a type of skin cancer that develops in the basal cells of the top layer of the skin. This type of skin cancer makes up approximately 70% of non-melanoma skin cancers and commonly develops on the head, neck and upper body.

Squamous Cell Carcinoma (SCC) – a type of cancer that begins in the squamous cells, accounting for approximately 30% of non-melanoma skin cancers. Squamous cells are found in several places in the body, including the top layer of the skin, in the main airways of the lungs, and in the cervix.

Melanoma – an aggressive form of skin cancer, it develops from the melanocytes (pigment cells) and usually occurs on parts of the body that have been overexposed to the sun. NB: Rare melanomas can also start in a part of the skin or body that has never been exposed to the sun.

We recommend downloading Cancer Council Australia's SunSmart app. It lets you know when you do and don't require sun protection anywhere in Australia, provides 7-day weather forecasts, alert functions and a sunscreen calculator based on the outfit worn by the user, as well as their weight and height. Head to cancer.org.au/sunsmartapp.

If you're concerned or want to arm yourself with further information, consult with your doctor and be sure to visit cancer.org.au or cancerqld.org.au for the most current information for you, your family and your friends.

Are you applying your sunscreen correctly?

It might seem silly, but this is an easy one to misjudge. In addition to using the SunSmart app for a tailored approach to how much sunscreen you should be using, below is an easy-to-follow guide for how much sunscreen to use and where, as advised by Cancer Council Australia.

- Use at least one teaspoon of a 30 SPF (or higher) sunscreen, per limb
- One teaspoon for the head (face, ears, front and back of neck)
- One teaspoon for the back of the body and one teaspoon for the front
- Reapply every two hours, or after swimming, sweating or towel drying

One full-body application should be roughly seven teaspoons or 35ml*
